Clarity for complex financial lives

As a senior executive or director, your financial position is likely to be more complex than most. Variable remuneration, pension allowances, tax exposure and limited time for planning can all increase complexity, and open up risks and missed opportunities.

Wren Sterling's Executive Financial Planning Service is designed specifically for people like you, providing independent advice that brings clarity to your situation and helps ensure your financial plans work as hard as you do.

Why planning is essential

Without proactive planning, financial complexity can lead to:

Unexpected tax bills that could have been avoided

Pension contributions that exceed allowances without realising

Missed opportunities to make the most of tax reliefs

Investment strategies that don't reflect your real goals

Wealth that isn't structured effectively for the future

Why Wren Sterling

We're Financial Planners, which means much more than simply recommending investments. This means we look holistically at your whole situation. We plan your finances to achieve your long-term goals, incorporating tax planning, protection and regular reviews to ensure your plans adjust around the changes in your life.

What your pension review includes

01

Review all pension contributions and schemes

02

Assess your annual pension allowance, including any tapering

03

Calculate available carry forward across the previous three tax years

04

Confirm your total contribution capacity for the current tax year

05

Analyse any potential tax charge

06

Assess any annual allowance tax charge implications, including scheme pays vs self-pay

07

Consider salary sacrifice and contribution structure

08

Recommend contribution levels and timing

09

Review your lump sum allowance position and associated tax implications

What you will receive

You'll receive a personalised, decision-ready advice report, supported by a dedicated discussion with a financial adviser.

Your report will include:

- An overview of your current financial position
- Your available contribution capacity
- Any potential tax exposure, fully explained
- A tailored contribution strategy
- Practical next steps, including how and when to act

Fees

The Executive Financial Planning Service is typically available for a fixed fee of £1,850+VAT.

The exact cost and any tax implications will be discussed and agreed based on individual circumstances. This fee covers the full review, advice report and adviser presentation meeting.

If you choose to proceed with wider financial planning or estate planning advice following your review, the initial fee is deducted from the total cost of that engagement. The fee can be paid by the employee or employer.
